DREAM.

Oh! there is a dream of early youth, Oh! there is a dream of early youth,
And it never comes again;
'Tis a vision of light, and life and truth,
That filts across the brain:
And love is the theme of that early dream,
So wild, so warm, so new,
That all our after years, I dream,
That early dream we rue.

Oh! there is a dream of maturer years,
More turbulent by far;
'Tis a vision of blood, and of woman's tears,
For the theme of that dream is war;
And we toil in the fields of danger and death,
And we shout in the battle array.
'Till we find that fame is a bodiless breath,
That vanisheth away.

Out there is a dream of hoary age.
"Tis a vision of gold in store—
Of sums noted down in the figured page,
To be counted o'er and o'er.
And we fondly trust in our glittering dust, As a refuge from grief and pain,
'Till our limbs are laid on the last dark bed,
Where the wealth of the world is vain.

And is it thus, from man's birth to his grave-And is it thus, from the soft to the grace In the which all are treading.

Is there nought in that long career to seek, From remorse and self upbraiding?

Oh. yes, there's a dream, so pure, so bright, That the being to whom it is given.

Hath bathed in a sea of living light—And the theme of that dream is Heaven.
